

ALLIES PLAN BIG DRIVE FROM CHERBOURG GOP CHEERS GOV. WARREN'S PEACE PROMISE

Willkie Protest To Foreign Plank Only Sour Note

Dewey Nomination Practically Sure

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 26 (AP)—The Republican wartime convention, in harmony to rare degree on Thomas E. Dewey as its prospective presidential nominee, whooped it up tonight for promises of lasting peace—but found Wendell L. Willkie combatting its tentative plan for achieving it.

Assurance that the party is just as able as the Democrats to win the war and bring about enduring world security came from Governor Earl Warren of California. He delivered the traditional keynote speech to thousands steaming under the glare of floodlights.

Willkie Cuts Loose
But while delegates and spectators pushed into the big indoor bowl to hear Warren, Willkie cut loose in New York with a statement assailing the tentative foreign policy plank on which the convention's platform committee has been laboring day and night.

As now drafted, the plank calls for American participation in some international organization employing "peace forces" to guarantee the security of the world.

Offers Own Plan
The man who carried the Republican standard four years ago said he provided for "no effective international force for the suppression of aggression." In its place, he recommended creation of a United Nations council as the initial move toward a general international organization. Three or four great powers alone, Willkie said, should make all the decisions about the world's future.

Taft Challenges Willkie
Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, chairman of the drafters, promptly challenged any of Willkie's persuasion to bring their battle before the committee—"If Mr. Willkie has any adherents who desire to start a fight."

Senator Warren Austin of Vermont said Willkie's position would have no effect whatever on the foreign policy plank.

Nevertheless, word of the former party leader's blast at the plank swept through the convention delegates and created a flurry of excitement.

Dewey Supporters Silent
Supporters of Dewey, who is all set to attain a first ballot nomination, Wednesday had nothing to say about Willkie's foreign policy blast. But one remarked significantly:

"Of course we want Mr. Willkie's support in this campaign. We are going to do or fail to do anything justifiable that would cause him to take a passive or negative attitude."

The sudden statement shared attention with Warren's keynote address, sounding the party rallying cry for 1944. This address was delivered at a time when votes pledged to Dewey had mounted far.

Warren Sounds Keynote: Asserts Republican Party Will Guide Nation to Enduring Peace

Declares GOP's First Objective Is To Keep War Out of Politics, Politics Out of War

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—Governor Earl Warren of California pictured the Republican party tonight as triumphantly on its way back to power and pledged that it will guide the country to an enduring peace and prosperity.

In a keynote speech for the party's national convention, Warren presented as "our job":

Describes "Our Job"

"To get our boys back home again—victorious and with all speed.

"To open the door for all Americans—to open it, not just to jobs, but to opportunity!

"To make and guard the peace so wisely and so well that this time will be the last time that American homes are called to give their sons and daughters to the agony and tragedy of war."

Warren denounced what he called the Roosevelt administration's "arrogant, power-intoxicated bureaucracy" but his 4,000-word speech was chiefly one of praise for his own party and assurances that the Republicans know how to, and will, bring about a lasting peace with victory, and good postwar conditions for business, labor, farmer and city dweller alike.

Opportunity for All

"We are here to make the road on which America can march toward victory, toward opportunity, toward peace," he told the convention.

G.O.P. Platform Considers Vets

Promises Them Voice in Treaty

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—Republican platform makers lengthened their tentative draft to promise the nation's soldiers and sailors a voice in foreign policy and to assure that the peace treaty will be subject to Senate ratification.

Another clause in the plank continued to draw the fire of some Republicans. Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut teamed with Gov. Walter Edge of New Jersey to lead a fight for submission to the convention tomorrow of a simplified statement calling for effective international co-operation to preserve future peace.

Baldwin told a reporter he understood that the plank, which pledges American participation in a world organization employing "peace forces" to thwart aggression, "means all things to all people and thus means nothing at all."

"What we should do," he said, "is to set forth the principles of international collaboration in bare, plain language."

To the original 400-word draft of the foreign policy plank the following provision was added, according to authoritative reports:

"In all of these undertakings we favor the widest consultation of the gallant men and women in our armed forces who have a special right to speak with authority in behalf of the security and liberty for which they fight."

B. & O. Boosts State War Loan Total

BALTIMORE, June 26 (AP)—Maryland's Fifth War Loan drive advanced considerably today with a $1,180,000 subscription allocated to the state by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bringing the largest boost.

This latest subscription by the B. & O. raised the line's total subscription in Maryland to $5,240,000.

Individual purchases for the state totaled $26,300,000, a gain of $4,100,000 over Saturday's figure.

Americans, in Cherbourg Since D-Day, Hidden by French Friends

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Advance American patrols, penetrating into Cherbourg, discovered four United States airmen who had landed near the city on D-Day and had since been hidden by French patriots.

The story was told tonight by BBC reporter Colin Wills in a London broadcast recorded by CBS.

Wills said the men were Lt. Harvey W. Doering, Jr., Wakarusa, Mo.; Lt. Thomas Westbrook, Harlan, Iowa; Tech Sgt. James Smith, Chicago, and Sgt. John Delistovic, Hoboken, N. J.

When an American patrol fought its way into Cherbourg yesterday, Wills related, "a Frenchman suddenly ran out from a gate toward them. He shouted: 'Friends! Friends!'"

He said: "I have four Americans here. Four more figures approached. It was true. These four Americans had been in Cherbourg during the attack by their countrymen."

The American airmen disclosed,

Wills said, that they were in a plane which dropped parachutists south of the Cherbourg peninsula on D-Day. On their return journey they were caught by heavy flak and were forced down near Cherbourg.

The men said they set fire to the plane and most of their equipment and hid in a ditch until the next morning when they accepted a French maid and told her they were Americans.

The girl, Wills related, immediately left for help, brought food and wine, and found a hiding place for the men in a haystack. After a few days members of the French underground took the men to a home in the city.

There, the correspondent said for two and a half weeks, while American forces were planning their way up the peninsula, the airmen remained hidden.

"The French people were wonderful," the men were quoted as saying. "They risked their lives to save ours."

Americans Close To Saipan Goal

Key Objective Nearly Reached

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, June 26 (AP)—Adm. C. W. Nimitz announced today American troops had reached the summit of 1,554 foot high Mt. Tapotchau, a key objective in the campaign to conquer Saipan—and also have captured Kagan peninsula to win complete control of Magicienne bay on the Eastern shore.

At the same time, the communiqué said, American troops won more of the southern portion of shattered Garapan, the major city of 10,000 population stretched along the western shore.

United States Marines spearheaded the scaling of cave and cliff defended Mt. Tapotchau while hard hitting carrier task force heavily bombed Guam and Rota island south of Saipan.

Nine Japanese planes were destroyed in the attacks. That brought to 756 the total number of Japanese aircraft destroyed since the start of the Marianas campaign June 10.

The Nimitz communiqué did not directly claim the capture of Mt. Tapotchau, which was flatly declared by a correspondent's dispatch from the expeditionary force flagship.

The communiqué said positions have been established near the summit. It was apparent American troops now have observation and threat advantage to fire down the throat of the enemy still holding the mountain's northern slope.

Yanks and French Gain in Drive To Take Florence

Germans Continue Spotty Resistance

ROME, June 26 (AP)—American and French troops have slugged their way within less than fifteen miles of the inland city of Siena and within forty-five miles of Florence after Yank forces rolling up the West coast captured the port of Piombino without a fight, Allied headquarters announced today.

German resistance continued spottily in the coastal sector, despite fresh reinforcements of sixty-ton tiger tanks brought from France within the past three weeks, but the Eighth army was meeting stubborn opposition on both sides of Lake Trasimeno near the center of the long fighting front.

Nazis Abandon Post
Capture of Piombino gave the Allies another valuable forward supply base on the West coast. The Nazis were forced to abandon the port to avoid encirclement. American infantry and armor charged on northward along the Rome-Pisa highway to within thirty-five road miles of Livorno (Leghorn). Italy's third largest port, whose harbor installations have virtually been destroyed by Allied bombing and German demolitions.

Siena, thirty-one miles south of Florence, was in the path of three Allied columns converging from the southwest, south and southeast. French troops, fighting through mountainous terrain about twenty-five miles southeast of Siena, were meeting the fiercest opposition in the neighborhood of Rocca D'Orcia, which they occupied yesterday.

Yanks in Tank Battle
American troops stabbing toward Siena from the southwest were reported locked in a hot tank and infantry fight south of Montieri and about eight miles northeast of Massa Maritima, which they had by-passed.

The bitterly-contested town of Chiusi, nine miles southwest of Lake Trasimeno, remained in German hands, but the enemy's grip was threatened by Eighth army units which had driven up the western shore of the lake to within two miles of Castiglione.

Red Troops Found With Nazi Forces
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 26 (AP)—Several battalions of Russians, pressed into German military service, have been met by Allied invasion armies on the Normandy front, it was disclosed today, and some still are fighting there.

They are among the considerable numbers of foreign troops in the German service encountered since the first wave of the invasion. Apparently they have been used largely to round out coastal garrisons and local reserve forces.

There was no indication how well the Russians might have fought, but one officer pointed out that with German guns at their backs, most foreign troops do fight.

Captured Russians are treated the same as any other prisoners of war, at least until further clarification of their status.

New Hampshire
To Support Dewey
CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—New Hampshire's delegation to the Republican national convention tonight announced their eleven votes would go to Governor Dewey.

The group made no announcement as to its preference for the vice presidential nomination.

Nation's Newspaper Editors Ask
Treaty Guaranteeing Free Press
CHICAGO, June 27 (AP)—The nation's newspaper editors resolved tonight to work for a proviso in the peace treaty calling for a free press and unrestricted world news transmission facilities.

Directors of the American Society of Newspaper Editors decided to take up the question with the State department and other government agencies with a view to its incorporation in any general international organization or peace settlement.

The group decided also to urge both major political parties to take a stand on the question by writing a plank into their 1944 campaign platforms.

A committee of the society, in cooperation with the news gathering services and broadcasting organizations, drew up such a plank to be submitted to the Republican and Democratic conventions. It calls for an unrestricted interchange of news and equal opportunity on all world transmission facilities.

475 Dead Japs Found In Maffin Bay Area
ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, Tuesday, June 27 (AP)—Four hundred and seventy-five Japanese dead have been counted in recent fighting in the Maffin bay area of Dutch New Guinea, headquarters announced today.

Maffin bay is midway between the two other Dutch New Guinea bases of Hollandia and Biak, and is near the major Allied airbase of Wakde island.

Destroyer Escort
Lost in Combat
WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—The Destroyer escort Fechteler was lost in combat in the Mediterranean last month, the navy announced today.

Indicating that casualties had occurred, the navy said that next of kin had been notified.

The Fechteler, a 1,300-ton ship of the type designed especially for convoy protection against submarines, is the second vessel of that class to be lost. The Leopold was sunk last March in the North Atlantic.

Destroyer escorts normally carry a crew of 150.

The ship built at the Norfolk Navy yard was commissioned on July 1, 1943.

WINCHESTER, Va., June 26 (AP)—Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia has been notified by the War department that a son Private Bradshaw Beverly Byrd, was slightly wounded in France, June 9.

Maryland Help Sought in Move To Name Bricker

Attempt To Stop Dewey Reported

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—The Baltimore Evening Sun reported today that members of the Maryland delegation to the Republican national convention were solicited for support of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio but without immediately apparent results.

The Evening Sun report disclosed that the Bricker organization's solicitation was part of efforts to stem a bandwagon rush to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and several Maryland delegates said they had been invited to "talk the situation over."

Convention Rules Accepted
Meanwhile, to avoid having the delegates-at-large attend today's sessions merely as "guests," the Maryland delegation shelved its attempt to have the state's sixteen votes represented by twenty-two delegates and reduced itself to conform with convention rules.

The reshuffling took place at a caucus last night after it was discovered that only ten of the twenty-two state convention named delegates were included on the temporary convention roll call.

A committee provided for the Republican state convention to fill vacancies named four delegates-at-large and two from the Third district who were moved from half-vote to full-vote status, thus removing the half-vote issue with the convention credentials committee from the Maryland delegation's agenda.

New Delegate List
Sheridan F. Smith and Eric Frederick are the Third district delegates and the new delegate-at-large representation consists of Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore, who yesterday found himself on the guest list; Morgan C. Harris, of Cumberland; Gordon Harris, Royal Oak, and Mrs. Margaret D'Unger, Baltimore.

The reshuffling resulted in State Central Committee Chairman Galen L. Tait's surrendering his position as a delegate-at-large and the dropping of Harry O. Levin, original Dewey man in Maryland, to the status of an alternate.

Mayor McKeldin and Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth district, were credited with having urged the action seating the sixteen-member delegation called for by the convention rules.

Jap Base in Burma Appears Doomed
BY JOHN GROVER
SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, CEYLON, June 26 (AP)—Mogaung, one of the three main Japanese bases in North Burma, appeared tottering tonight under the weight of savage Allied blows from three sides.

Chinese troops swept through the southern half of the town and attacked its northern strongpoints, while Maj. Gen. W. D. A. Lenthaigne's Chinthee forces stabbed another 400 yards from the east, a communiqué from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said.

Concrete defenses rising around the docks carved from solid rock were overwhelmed by the almost continuous stream of shells.

The action called for the closest co-operation with Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's army. Marksmanship had to be perfect. Anything hitting more than 2,000 yards inland would have endangered troops waiting in their positions for the signal to move in and capture Cherbourg.

The Nevada was joined by the battleship Texas and the battleship Arkansas.

Field dispatches described the action as the heaviest and most concentrated naval bombardment of the invasion. One correspondent said the ships closed in around doomed Cherbourg "like dogs unleashed."

Warships Help Take Cherbourg

Steam Close Inshore To Attack Germans

BY HENRY B. JAMESON
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 26 (AP)—Fourteen Allied warships—headed by a Pearl Harbor victim, the battleship Nevada—steamed well inside the range of Cherbourg's notoriously tough shore defenses Sunday afternoon and blasted her batteries into silence.

For three and a half hours three United States battleships, four cruisers and seven destroyers under the command of Rear Admiral Morton L. Deyo stood off the semi-circle bay and threw steel into the mighty concrete emplacements protecting the guns.

Severe enemy fire failed to turn them back and some ships moved in as close as 8,000 yards to shore—which is about the equivalent of an infantryman sticking his gun in your face.

The bulletin also admitted the fall of Yuhstien, forty-five miles north-east of the beleaguered city.

The Japanese, using a large number of troops throughout Hunan province, were attacking over a wide area. The enemy continued to broaden the front sixty miles to the north of Hengyang, striking westward from captured Sianhsiang toward Tanshih, about twelve miles away.

The Chinese said his column was driven back.

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—The Berlin radio said tonight that Viscount Lascelles, 21, a nephew of King George VI, had been captured on the Italian front.

Massive Red Armies Capture
1,700 Towns, Trap 45,000 Nazis
BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM
LONDON, Tuesday, June 27 (AP)—Massive Red armies yesterday captured Vitebsk and Zlobin, northern and southern anchors of the vaunted German fatherland line in White Russia, and plunging forward at a mile-an-hour clip were well on the way toward encirclement of three remaining bastions of the German defense along a 250-mile front, a Soviet communiqué announced last night.

1,700 Towns Liberated
An unprecedented number of populated places—more than 1,700—were liberated in the path of the gigantic offensive as four Red armies left Vitebsk and Zlobin to be snatched up and plunged westward toward Germany itself.

The remnants of five German divisions, possibly 45,000 men, trapped in and around Vitebsk, were being wiped out, said a broadcast bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor.

The Soviets captured Obol, forty miles northwest of Vitebsk and only twenty miles from Polotsk, German base fifteen miles from the old Polish border. The line of this new front alone extended fifty-three miles southward to captured Cherevya, fifty-eight miles southwest of Vitebsk.

Encircle Germans
Red troops storming toward the White Russian Nazi bastion of Orsha, forty-seven miles south of Vitebsk, took the town of Pashchalovo, less than two miles north of the Orsha, and the process of encirclement was under way.

Mogilev, another German stronghold, also was being encircled. The Russians took Mogilev, six miles northeast of the city and also were astride the railway eighteen miles east of the base.

Soviet forces also plunged more than forty miles beyond captured Zlobin, whose fall was hailed in an order of the day from Marshal Stalin last night.

The two of Brodka was captured placing Red troops twelve miles southwest of the German stronghold of Bobruisk as the Russians began another encircling movement.

French Seaport Nearly Freed of Nazi Defenders

British Advance In Caen Section

By JAMES M. LONG
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Tuesday, June 27 (AP)—With bayonet and grenade United States troops tackled the last few pillboxes and Germans fighting to the last in the arsenal area of Cherbourg last night and it appeared today that within hours this third largest French port would be cleared to become the forward base for a big new Allied offensive.

Associated Press correspondents, Don Whitehead in a dispatch from Cherbourg at 9:12 (3:12 p. m.) eastern war time) said that as the mop-up squads moved through the smoke-filled streets shells whistled into the city from German positions farther west on Cap De La Hague.

Germans on Cliffs
To route Germans from cliff positions overlooking the city, he declared, might be a job of several days.

NBC reporter W. W. Chaplin broadcast from the beachhead that "all organized resistance has ceased in Cherbourg," and CBS correspondent Larry Le Sueur broadcast the same report, although he said Germans in forts and the arsenal were putting up "death struggles."

Supreme headquarters, which a few hours earlier had reported street fighting raging in the city, was awaiting word of the final cleanup momentarily, but official word of the capture is unlikely to come until the last enemy gun is silenced.

British Advancing
In this imminent hour of the greatest victory of the invasion, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery burst open the Caen front with the biggest British gain since D-Day.

Starting under a barrage of guns massed one every eight yards, the British pushed five miles through the German lines on a three and one-half mile front between Tilly-sur-Seuilles and Caen, using flame throwers to overcome some enemy pockets. Fighting swirled about the villages of Cheux, St. Mauviel and La Gaule, five miles east of Tilly and less than six miles from Caen.

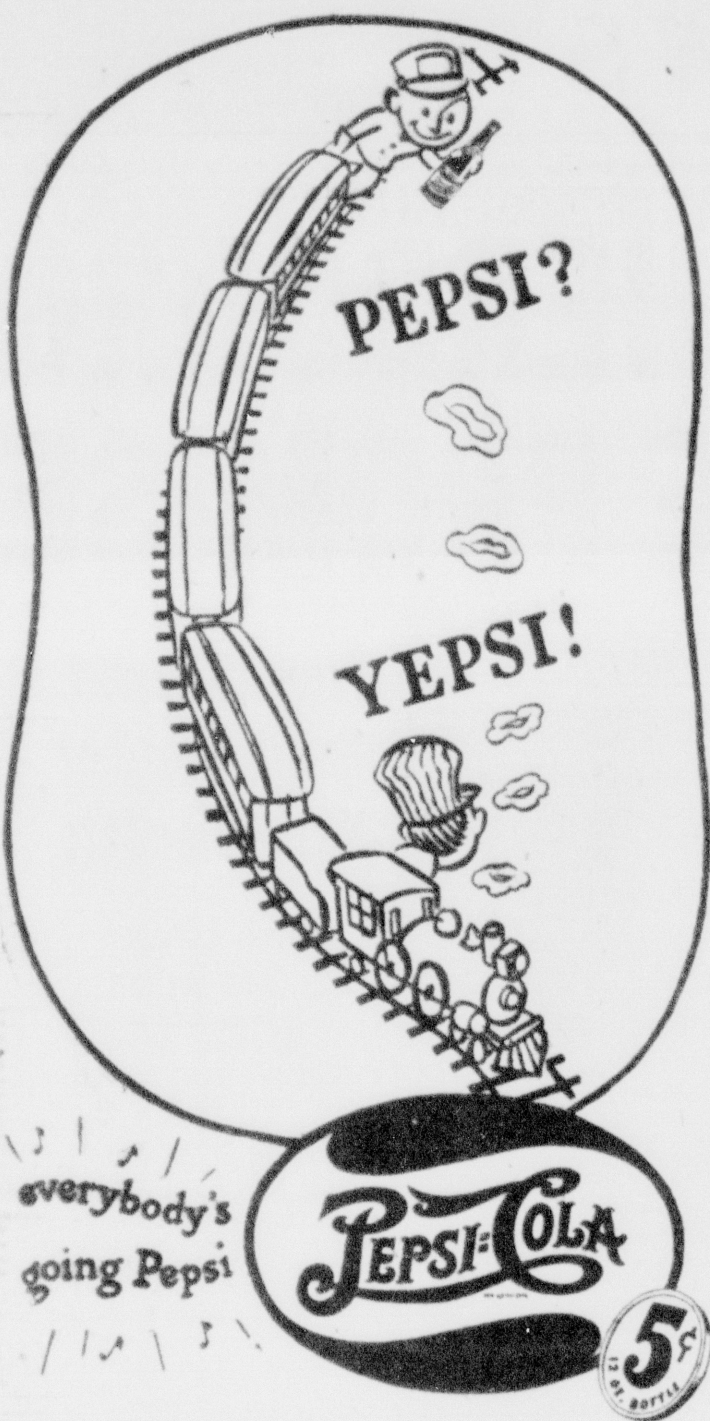

Dispatches from the front said German resistance in Cherbourg virtually was spent except for scattered strong points still defying the doughboys streaming into the city.

Nazis Die by Hundreds
Gen. von Schlieben ignored a second United States ultimatum to surrender—Berlin said his command post was under rifle fire—and doughboys fought house by house and street by street to clean out the fanatical defenders, who were dying by the hundreds in the rubble of their positions.

Despite the fury of the defense, the United States troops had seized 3,400 prisoners in the last twenty-four hours, bringing to more than 20,000 the number of the enemy they have rounded up since D-Day, headquarters announced.

It was a race against time and Allied engineers were ready to get the port into working order, for a truly big-scale offensive cannot well be launched from the helter-skelter method of unloading on the beach.

The German Command Is Being Outgeneraled

IT IS THREE WEEKS since the Allies stormed the beaches of Normandy. The Germans were caught off balance, the beachheads were made secure and Allied reinforcements were poured in. For three weeks the Germans have been caught in a perplexing strategic squeeze.

To throw their best reserves at the invasion troops might open a door elsewhere to a new, and even bigger, invasion thrust. It has been so perfectly done, this invasion of Normandy, that not even the most expert Anglo-American military observers have the slightest idea of the Eisenhower-Montgomery strategy. It is very much like the football play all coaches dream about—the end-around play screened so magnificently that not a player on the opposition side knows where the ball really is.

The total number of Allied casualties to date apparently is less than the number of German prisoners taken, a really amazing performance where an amphibious landing on beaches has been involved.

Cherbourg itself is a rich prize. It is a major deep water port and, judging from Allied experiences in other ports, it has already been placed in use. The Allies were able to put the Naples port into use quickly, although it had been damaged seriously. So with many North African ports.

With Cherbourg in use, supplies can flow directly into France from the United States. And this possibility only highlights the German dilemma. After all, the Allied base is England itself. With supplies from the United States going into Cherbourg, almost anything can happen at any time from the English bases.

Adolf Hitler's high command is simply being outgeneraled. The "great" Nazi strategists are fighting the first team now and they are finding the Allies not only amphibious, but ambidextrous.

Rational Taxation a Basic Postwar Need

BASIC to the success of any postwar economic program is a rationalized system of taxation. This fact was given recognition in the Baruch-Hancock report in the declaration that "until it is definitely known that postwar taxes are to be reduced, the launching of new enterprises and the expansion of existing ones will be deferred."

Accordingly, the report recommended that "a postwar tax be drafted now and put on a shelf for use at the end of the war."

This proposition received indorsement from many sources, but the New Deal forces in Congress appeared to be in no hurry to take up the matter. In fact, Chairman Doughton dashed cold water on any consideration of postwar taxes declaring this was not the time to be talking about the matter.

With the decision of the Congressional Joint Committee on Taxation to begin studies at once for the reduction of postwar taxes, it is evident that the Doughtons have at last been routed. If the Baruch-Hancock recommendation is followed, the program will be devised to provide for reduction of the national debt even as it encourages industrial expansion. Attaining these two objectives in conjunction might seem an impossible task, but in resolving doubt on that score, the Baruch-Hancock report made some cogent comment.

"If the proper policies can be followed," it stated, "tax rates can be reduced and the debt still cut. Lower rates which stimulate a high volume of business and high national income, will yield greater total tax receipts than would high rates which depress business volume, employment and income. Nothing will do more to make for monopoly or to deter the creation of new enterprise than excessively high taxes."

Logic and experience support this argument. While the Baruch-Hancock report properly did not go beyond stating what the authors believed should be the guiding principle, postwar tax proposals have been advanced by other authorities. These proposals vary, of course, but some show broad comprehension and doubtless will receive the attention of the joint committee.

Right on the heels of the committee's decision to seek ways for reducing taxes with the ending of the war, Secretary Morgenthau declares he foresees little likelihood of a major revision in the early postwar years. Incidentally, the secretary's statement that he doubted dual taxation of corporate profits—that is, taxing them when earned and again when paid out in dividends—would be eliminated, was an indirect challenge to Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board. The latter, in common with other authority, holds that taxation of dividends constitutes "perhaps the most important tax deterrent to equity investment in normal times."

To say the least, Mr. Morgenthau was most inept in his offhand manner of stating his position. Fortunately, his opinions on fiscal matters no longer carry the weight they once did with Congress.

The Greatest Danger In the Fourth Term

ONE of the greatest dangers involved in the fourth term is that it involves probable loss of the independence of the nation's judiciary.

Seven of the nine members of the Supreme Court of the United States have already been appointed by Franklin D. Roosevelt. He has also had the prerogative of naming a large proportion of the lesser federal courts.

If Mr. Roosevelt should be permitted to serve another four years in the presidency, he would most likely have the appointment of a heavy majority of the federal judges.

Thus an objective Mr. Roosevelt has pursued with relentless determination—a determination that was revealed when he sought to pack the supreme court but was prevented by the Senate—would be achieved, namely, that of overthrowing the judiciary as a co-equal branch of the government and subjugating it to the executive branch.

That, of course, would place the rights and liberties of all Americans in jeopardy. There could be no surer way to endanger the independence of the judiciary than to perpetuate one man in the presidential office for so many years that a majority of the federal judges retire or die and their places are filled by that one man's appointees.

It is all the more serious when it is noted that Mr. Roosevelt selects for judicial appointments only those men with positive New Deal leanings.

There is only one way in which this danger can be averted and that, of course, is by preventing a fourth term at the November election. The people should realize this danger and act accordingly.

Business Opportunity In the Postwar Era

MANY THOUSANDS of returning war veterans will want to establish small enterprises of their own in communities all over the nation where postwar opportunity will present itself.

It generally is anticipated that when the war is over the period of worldwide reconstruction will call for universal economic readjustment, particularly in the United States, which has revolutionized itself industrially in response to the demands of war production. The Baruch carry-over plan stresses the necessity of relaxation of federal control of industry and its return to private operation.

This focuses attention on the reestablishment of industry along traditional lines of American enterprise. It should mean the restoration of small business—now more or less a wartime pack-bearer—to the status of economic recognition it always has rated as the backbone of national enterprise.

A resurgence of small business along new lines may play a vital role in the nation's postwar economic transition. Not only will it offer a ready answer to the question of readjusted employment, but it will serve in reestablishing the American industrial structure. Men and women from the services and war plants will bring new skills, new vision and new enthusiasm to waiting postwar opportunity. There will be new horizons of challenge to stepped-up American enterprise. The situation will call for broad-gauge planning—by business men not by federal bigholders.

Prediction has been made war against Germany may end by January. At least it will be a cold day for Hitler.

Another thing that makes the Republican convention different is that it has no loudspeakers connected with Chicago sewers.

Peace has its terrors, too. After the war, we understand, the singing telegram will be with us again.

Under Pressure

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Would you like to know what a man is like . . . in his heart . . . in his real self?

Then watch him when he is Under Pressure. When fortune has been foul. When he has a headache. When his work is going badly. When his job is slipping away from him. When his pride is hurt. When his wife has left him. When he's been a fool. When life isn't so rosy.

That's when a man is tested. That's when you learn an important truth about him—when he's Under Pressure.

You and your friend and all the rest of us are like the fellows we remember in war time. . . . The Loud Mouths who went to pieces when the guns began to boom, or who didn't. The Quiet Lads who did their best work when the tension was greatest and too many others were losing their heads — or who lost their heads, too. . . . You can't always tell in advance how a man will act in warfare, in economic disintegration, in personal turmoil. . . . You must wait until the pressure of conflict begins to bear down upon him. Then you know, without fail, whether he can stand the Gaff.

We can't even know ourselves until we are Under Pressure, until the strain begins and we strip away the little pretenses and the cheerful optimism and face trouble and temptation. We find ourselves then, and unless we have very accommodating forgetteries we never lose track of what we were like—Under Pressure.

It's useful to know what we're like at such a time—more useful than having money in the bank. If we know we act well under pressure, then we know we have something put by for a rainy day, and it will not fail us.

But it is also well to remember that we do not live the whole of life Under Pressure. The great emergencies come infrequently. Heroism is not required daily of us. We do not live forever on the heights. . . . Ask much of yourself, but if you demand too much of your friends you will be a lonely man.

Tactics of Dewey Backers Are Called Unusually Clever

By PAUL MALLON

CHICAGO, June 26—Here is Governor Dewey, a man who is not a candidate, who has spent no money, made only three public appearances outside his state in the last two years, on the eve of an overwhelming nomination against John W. Bricker and other candidates including Willkie who did campaign, and one of whom (Willkie) spent money.

Never has there been a campaign like it in all American history, and the inside story of how they did it likewise is unique.

Perhaps the similar campaign of Mr. Roosevelt is what set a tone which made this one possible.

It is true also some money has been spent by state organizations for Dewey, but without any central guidance, and in the face of disavowals of support from on high.

Typically, the first expense account of Dewey's New York delegation headquarters here was for a carton of cigarettes and a case of Coca-Cola.

Yet this unique campaign has brought most of the Willkie crowd into or near the fold. His Oregon national committeeman, Ralph Calk, Ken Bradley, Johnny Haynes and others are here, apparently ready to go along with the prospective nominee, as are the Cowles brothers, leading Midwest publishers, although no one here pretends to know what Willkie himself will do.

May Become Publisher

(Rumors that he will become publisher of the Chicago Daily News or a university president and thus switch over to become an unofficial adviser on politics from his active political leadership position are generally accepted as likely to work out.)

At any rate his following is tending toward Dewey.

The crushing of Willkie may be attributed to a pre-convention popular, spontaneous, almost unled uprising, but the crushing of the Bricker candidacy is directly traceable to the smart hand and footwork of the Dewey campaign managers here.

Nothing like them has ever happened before either. There is not one Dewey leader, but three. His triumvirate of managers are all equal in position!

Herbert Brownell, Jr., legal counsel of the Republican state committee and personally closest to Dewey; J. Russell Sprague, New York national committeeman and the Dewey spokesman in press conferences, and Edwin P. Jacek, state chairman.

When a point is at issue, they go into a huddle, and come out apparently always of one mind. On important matters they call the governor long distance.

Their tactics are reminiscent of Jim Farley's grass roots delegate hunting and smart publicity. It takes enlightened shrewdness to cop a convention quietly for a non-candidate without getting scalded occasionally—the demonstrated popularity of Dewey in the primaries being offset considerably by the bulk of uninstructed delegates which came in here.

Done without Touching

For instance the way they took the heart out of the Bricker movement without touching him is an example of the way they work. An hour after Bricker had held a press conference on the scene here in person, offering his best publicity bid for the nomination, criticizing in his plain, unblatant way, the absence, silence and delegate-strength of Dewey, the triumvirate called a press conference.

They said nothing about Bricker and in fact nothing themselves about Dewey. Apparently they just wanted to introduce the press to twenty-four national committeemen (who are actually political directors of their states or represent those who are) and leaders of six other states.

All thirty got up and spoke a few words for Dewey, but the most significant speaker was Bill Reickel.

Lawrence Says Dewey Is Sure Winner But Sees Strong Bricker Undercurrent

By DAVID LAWRENCE

CHICAGO, June 26 — Governor Dewey will be nominated by acclamation all right but he is far from the unanimous choice of the delegates. It may even be doubtful whether if the convention were held a month later and the momentum behind the boom for Governor Bricker, of Ohio, were to continue, there wouldn't be a close contest.

This is but another way of saying that for one reason or another Dewey is not as strong with some elements of the Republican party as might be believed. These elements are not easy to segregate. Some of them like Bricker because they think he is more for the right and less of an opportunist than Dewey. Others, especially the conservatives of the party, have their fingers crossed about Dewey.

They think he may turn out to be a more of a progressive or New Dealer than they counted on. Certainly, they reason, Bricker would be "safe". Which means he would never go to the extremes of progressivism that Dewey might attain.

Nationalism a Likely Factor

There may be behind this undercurrent of antipathy something else. In the Middle West "isolationism" has been strong for a long time. Governor Dewey earned the enmity of the Chicago Tribune, for instance, by his announcement that he favored an extension of the British-American military alliance so that it would continue after the war. To favor collaboration with Britain is a cardinal sin in some quarters in the Middle West. But Governor Dewey seems on the other hand to have won the confidence of the international-minded groups who have been awaiting anxiously to see whether the withdrawal of Willkie would leave the Dewey candidacy too close to the so-called nationalist school of thought.

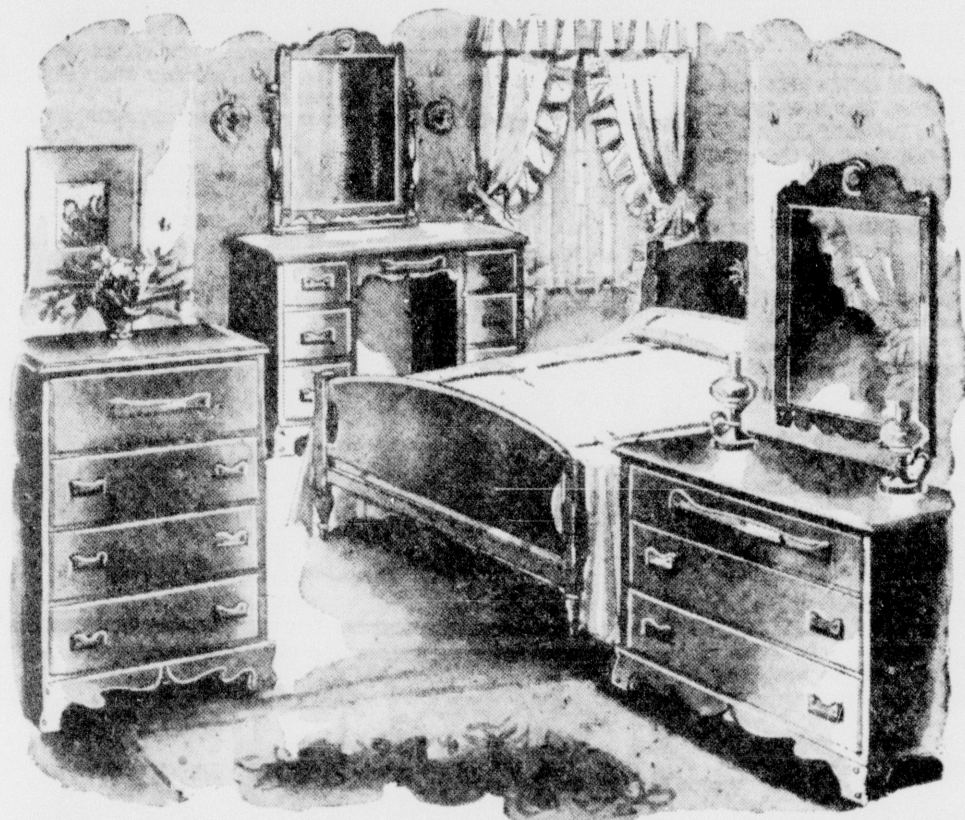

The platform plank on international policy which has been proposed is wide enough for any candidate to campaign on. It is as broad as the Moscow Declaration for the benefit of the internationalists and as general as the Mackinac Island Declaration which, when embodied in the Connally resolution in the Senate was sufficiently palatable to the isolationists to win the support of such isolationists as Senator

Minke Is Powerless To Act against Dogs Damaging Gardens

Numerous complaints about dogs damaging victory gardens have been received in recent days by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, but he stated yesterday that he is powerless to act unless the dogs are caught in the act of pursuing or molesting game.

Owners whose dogs are caught pursuing game are subject to a fine of $5 and costs for each and every offense.

Minke said the law provides that dogs not be permitted to run at large from March 1 to September 10 but there is no clause which offers protection to victory gardens from the depredations of animals.

Willkie Protests

Warren Silent About Self
Warren himself apparently is in the van of vice presidential possibilities, but he gave no hint in his speech that he had changed in the slightest his declaration that he is not a candidate.

The keynote forecast that "we shall march forward under God toward victory, toward opportunity, toward peace."

"It is the purpose of this convention," he said, "to put the public welfare above private self-interest; to put the nation above party; to put the progress of the whole American community above special privilege for any part of it; to put indispensable principles—once and for all—above indispensable men."

East-West Ticket Looms

There were indications that Warren was Dewey's preference for the vice-presidential spot on the 1944 ticket. That would present an east-west line-up—with a bid for corn belt support in the selection of Governor Griswold of Nebraska to put Dewey's name in nomination Wednesday.

Sweating, shirt-sleeved delegates started off their wartime convalescence undramatically this morning and went through a routine of organization formalities. Warren was elected somewhat automatically to be temporary convention chairman.

The world went mad . . . Hate, hunger and misery darkened the sun. Children walked the streets of Europe . . . Sleeping on doorsteps, searching for crumbs.

Then out of the New World came a new hope . . . To join the nations at war for right. Came a young giant called America . . . Big as the prairies, big as the hills. Free and angry and unafraid.

He rolled up his sleeves; he spit on his hands . . . And then he out-produced the world. In the awful but needful weapons of war. The wrath and the might of his people grew . . . On land . . . at sea . . . in the boundless air.

Now he is marching on Europe . . . Side by side with staunch allies, Now he is at death grips With the cruellest foe man ever faced. Now he needs every ounce of his strength . . .

And because YOU are his strength Now you can help as never before . . . By doing YOUR part . . . by digging deep. By buying more bonds than ever before.

THIS WAS A RED-LETTER DAY for Jim—the soldier who had lost the use of his leg at Salerno. For this day he walked—strictly alone—for the first time in months. To Jim, it was a miracle. To the Wac who had coached him so long and so patiently, he said, "Sister, if I live to be a million, I'll always remember you for this."

THIS IS A WORLD WAR. The most terrible of all recorded events in human history.

And this is what the Wacs—the women soldiers of our Army—are doing about it:

Working in critical hospital jobs. Helping to restore the broken bodies and spirits of fighting men.

Working as lip-readers. Helping blind men to see again through knowledge of Braille. Working as laboratory technicians. As pharmacists. As psychiatric assistants. As ambulance drivers.

Working in control towers. Making strategy maps for invasion.

Manning the giant switchboards that send combat orders winging to tensely waiting bomber crews.

Working night and day at vital jobs. Jobs that will speed the day of liberation—and give us peace again.

These are the women "they'll never forget" . . .

Gallantly, a new page is being written into American history by the women of the Women's Army Corps.

Dream Tourney For Galleries Is Proposed

Corcoran Would Invite All Former Titleholders To Take Part

By FRITZ HOWELL
(Pinch-hitting for Whitney Martin)
NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Mr. Whitney Martin, who usually pens this pillar's pungent paragraphs, is enjoying what he refers to as a hard-earned vacation.
It was hardly earned, say his colleagues, who know of Mr. Martin's leisurely labors, but that's neither here nor there. The point is that he's there, and we're here, which led the boss to point a pudgy finger our way and say:
"You are writing Mr. Martin's column today."
No taint of commercialism has ever touched Mr. Martin's column, and we'll keep it that way, although we plan to use his space today to auction off a sports event. It's like this—

Dream Tournament Plan
Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the Professional Golfers' Association, has an idea for a dream tournament for the galleries—An event where the spectators can sit down anywhere along the eighteen-hole route and watch golfing history go marching by.

Without even looking into the record books, Corcoran came up with the names of thirty-seven still-active golfers who between them have won twenty-one National Open tournaments, twenty-four P.G.A. titles, and twenty-two National Amateur crowns.

"Now my idea," Fred said, "is this. Why not get those thirty-seven players together on one course for a day's play, a sort of champion of champions carnival?
"We wouldn't keep any scores, and we wouldn't award any prizes, but the fans would have to buy war bonds to see 'em play. Or maybe we could charge cash at the gate, and turn it all over to some charity or war fund which is taking care of our servicemen."

"Think of the possibilities. We could pair up George Von Elm and Billy Burke, and let 'em put on a re-play of that seventy-two hole playoff for the 1931 National Open. Walter Hagan and Gene Sarazen, always rivals, could make another two-some."

Would Be Fine Field

"Bob Jones is in England, and we'd miss him in such a tournament, but we'd have a lot of talent anyway. No field like those thirty-seven champions has ever been gathered on a single course. Just think how the folks would like another look at such veterans as Jim Barnes, Francis Ouimet, Jerome Travers, Tommy Armour, Chick Evans, Jack Hutchinson and all the others, along with Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl, Sam Snead, Vic Ghezzi, Craig Wood and other modern day stars?"

"The P.G.A. is willing to run the tournament, and get the talent together. We'll give it to the city making the highest bid, with all receipts going to charity. We want to put it on where huge galleries can see it, for I know the fans would turn out for such a classic."
So there you are. Mr. Corcoran asks that cities interested in sponsoring the tournament send him their bids on how many war bonds they'll sell or how much they'll guarantee for a servicemen's charity, and he'll pick the winner and award the event.
And we thank you, Mr. Martin, for the use of your hall.

Browns Start 20 Game Road Tour

ST. LOUIS, June 26 (AP)—In last place a year ago, the topsy-turvy St. Louis Browns left for New York today leading the American League by four games at the start of what may be a crucial eastern trip for the team's pennant hopes.

The resurgent Yankees will have first crack at the league-leaders in their twenty-game tour. Manager Luke Sewell admitted frankly he would be pleased if the Browns could win eleven of the road games.
For those hoped-for victories, Sewell has a five-man pitching staff ready for duty in Bob Muncie (7-2), Jack Jakucki (5-2), Al Hollingsworth (4-2), Nelson Potter (7-5) and Jack Kramer (8-7). Hollingsworth's return to winning form gives the Browns a much needed southpaw ace.

As a help to the pitching, the team's bone-to-stout batting attack has been given a welcome wallop by Shortstop Vernon Stephens, who has smashed out twenty-five hits in his last fifty-one times at bat and has taken the league leadership in runs driven in.

The Hoodoo of forty-three years without a pennant failed to wreck the Browns on their previous eastern trip, although they were slipped for ten defeats in fourteen games. Returning home two and one-half games out of first place, they rebounded and won ten out of fifteen with the eastern clubs at Sportsman's park and added eleven victories against seven losses in intra-league western competition to build up their league lead.

The Browns' departure for the East was given a winning sendoff Sunday. In taking two games from the Detroit Tigers, they swept their first doubleheader since May 30.

Victory Tourney Will Open Friday

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—Wouldn't you just know it! They've teamed up little Ben Hogan with Babe Didrikson Zaharias and thrown in George for good measure.
That's the bing combination for the thirty-six-hole prelude Wednesday and Thursday to the Chicago Victory National Golf Championship. Big name pros will be paired in four-somes with a woman, an amateur and a senior—the aggregate score counting for a team title.
Now, in case you're wondering who George is—he's Mr. Babe Didrikson Zaharias. A golf club in the hand of this 275-pound ex-wrestler looks like a toothpick. But George knows the game, even to the extent of showing Babe how to play some of her shots during her drive for the women's Western Open crown last week.
The Hogan-Babe-George combine—a senior golfer fifty years old or over will be added—is enough to scare the rest of the entries off the course. What could be better than to have Babe trying to outdrive Lieut. Hogan of the army air force—or vice versa—with colorful cauliflower-eared George adding his bit?
This will be Hogan's first tournament outing since he won the Hale American Championship in 1942—and he's likely not to forget it.
Among the other pro-women combinations are Byron Nelson and Catherine Fox of Bloomfield, N. J.; Johnny Revolta and Lieut. Patty Berg of the Marines; Craig Wood and Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill.; Jug McSpaden and his former pupil, Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia.

The Victory National Championship, with a field of hand-picked pros and amateurs shooting for a first prize of $3,000 in war bonds, starts on a seventy-two-hole route Friday, capped by a thirty-six-hole finale Sunday.

Cardinals May Set Record in Winning Flag

Team Is Now Running Ninety-two Points Ahead of 1943 Race

By JACK HANCOCK
NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Billy Southworth's St. Louis Cardinals today are soaring ninety-two points ahead of their 1943, pace, nine and a half games out in front of the pack and threatening to romp off with the National League flag at the earliest date in history.
With almost 100 games to go between the current two-day travel interlude and the end of the Major League campaign Oct. 1, the Red Birds head into a long home stand against the eastern invaders with a substantial advantage over Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, conceded their toughest rivals.

Only the New York Giants and Boston Braves have given the Cardinals trouble this season and only Boston with a 4-3 edge holds a lead in games won. St. Louis has a 4-3 lead over the Giants and has pumped the other clubs at varying degrees up to an 11-0 warping of the Chicago Cubs.

A year ago St. Louis held a slender one-half game nod over the Brooklyn Dodgers who passed them two days later, but faded into a third place finish, 23½ games away, as the Cards topped runner-up Cincinnati by eighteen lengths.

Cincinnati and St. Louis are co-holders of early pennant clinching honors in the National. The date is Sept. 16. For the Reds it was 1919. For the Cards 1931. In 1919, during World War I, Chicago nailed down the flag on Aug. 25, but the race was called on Labor day, Pittsburgh made it sure on Sept. 1 in 1902, but that was over the 140-game route as compared with the present day 154-game schedule.

George Munger, the league's leading pitcher who has won ten and lost only one, is leaving for active duty in the armed service and outfielder Stan Musial and others may be lost before October, but the Cards still outclass the field.

If President Sam Breadon hasn't ordered his world series tickets printed yet there's only one reason: he has some left over from last year.

Baltimore To Have Three Golf Events

BALTIMORE, June 26 (AP)—Three major golfing events—the Maryland Open, qualifying for the professional golfers association tournament next month and the State Junior Open—will hold the links spotlight in the Baltimore area tomorrow.

The twenty-fourth open championship, a thirty-six-hole medal event, will be played at the Woodholme Country Club in connection with the Middle Atlantic qualifying for the P. G. A. event at Portland, Ore.

Only ten amateurs will compete in the State Junior Open, an eighteen-hole affair at the Suburban Club.
In a tune-up for the State Open, amateurs and professionals competed today in best-ball matches at the Woodholme club.

The prizes for the open total $400, with the winning pro to get $120 and five other prizes offered down to a sixth place $20. Winning amateurs will receive war bonds and stamps.

Forty-three golfers were paired for the Open, as compared with thirty-one in the Junior Open.

Willy Cox, Baltimore, state open titleholder, will not defend the crown.

Jockey McCreary Is Suspended

HOMEROWD, Ill., June 26 (AP)—A ladies day crowd of 14,000 today saw Jockey Conn McCreary, who brought Pensive in to win the Kentucky Derby last month, suspended for the duration of the Arlington Park season for holding in the Miss Dogwood sub-featured fifth race.

The Calumet Farms Towsy, with McCreary up, finished a nose in front of Blue Skimmer, ridden by Al Bodiu, with the even-money favorite, Surosa, third. The stewards ruled McCreary held Bodiu near the finish line and ruled him ineligible to ride up to and including August 3.

The stewards also disqualified the horse Towsy, placing him second. The revised placing was Blue Skimmer, first; Towsy, second, and Surosa, third. All three are candidates for Saturday's Lassie stakes.

Bel Gains Decision Over Fritzie Zivic

PITTSBURGH, June 26 (AP)—Tommy Bell, of Youngstown, O., won a 10-round split decision over Pvt. Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight champion before a crowd of 12,000 at Forbes field tonight.

Referee Ernie Sesto cast the deciding ballot for Bell after Judge Freddy Lax voted for the Ohioan and Judge Willie Davies cast his ballot for Zivic.
It was Zivic's first professional fight since he entered the army two months ago after thirteen years to the ring. It was the thirty-eighth victory for the dusky, 20-year-old Ohioan who has won twenty-eight of his fights over the knockout route.

After piling up a lead in the early rounds by out-manuevering his hard-punching opponent, Zivic's legs flattened in the fifth and he slowed his pace while the energetic Bell kept on the move.

Bee Bee Wright, Clairton, Pa. schoolboy, knocked out Steve Riglio of New York in 1-15 of the fourth round of a scheduled eight-rounder. Wright weighed 150, Riglio 149.

70 Reported Injured In Guatemala Battle

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA, June 26 (AP)—A traveler arriving here today said seventy persons were injured last night in a pitched battle in Guatemala City between armed civilians and police, and that tension was mounting throughout the country.

(An earlier report from Guatemala City said several persons were killed and wounded in clashes over the weekend with police but that the disorders had been quelled.)

The traveler said sporadic gunfire was heard in the city all day Sunday and that buses and taxicabs suspended operations but that the services were resumed this morning.

Pan-American Airways announced it had suspended the overnight stop in Guatemala City, effective today.

ments and their representatives in congress.
"Three out of every four Americans now live under Republican state administrations," Warren said. "In Washington, where the bureaucrats live, there is still a Democrat in the White House. But out where the people live, the country is predominantly Republican."
Warren gave as "our first objective"

Warren's First Objective
"To keep the war out of politics and politics out of war, to strengthen, among us, that spirit of single-mindedness, of unity, of self-forgetfulness, that will hearten our military leaders, strengthen their hands and speed the day when having bivouacked along the main streets of Germany and Japan, they will lead our boys victoriously home again."

Returning servicemen, Warren emphasized, will want "money making jobs in private industry" and not "government made jobs."

And the Republicans, he declared, "know what it is that makes job and opportunity. We know that private production makes them."

On the subject of peace Warren made these main points:
"We want a peace that is based upon realities and not upon the insecure foundation of mere words of promises. That means a peace which, being mindful of the interest of other nations, does not neglect or sacrifice the interests of our own nation."

"None of these aspirations can be realized under a leadership that plays power politics on a world wide stage."

James D. White Says:

First-Class Showdown with Japs Is Cooking in North Burma Area

Rehabilitation Work Continues In Tornado Area

Much Garrett County Timberland Destroyed; Repairs Start at Thomas

With the death toll standing at thirteen, residents of Garrett county in Western Maryland and Tucker and Randolph counties in West Virginia continued to dig out yesterday from the rubble of homes destroyed in Friday night's history-making tornado.

The death of John Nines, 65, of Thomas, W. Va., late Sunday night in the Tucker County hospital at Parsons, increased the total dead at Thomas to three. There were seven deaths at Montrose, Randolph county, W. Va., and three dead in the vicinity of Deed Park and Bethlehem community in Garrett county.

Most of the injured persons who were hospitalized showed improvement yesterday and several patients were discharged from the Potomac Valley hospital, at Keyser, W. Va., but Freddie David Sebald, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sebald, of near Deer Park, who were killed in the tornado, remained in a fair condition.

Harold Streets, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Streets, Abrams Creek, W. Va., also was listed as below in a fair condition in the Keyser hospital. Further examination showed he suffered an injury of the pelvis in addition to brush burns and shock.

Much Timber Destroyed

District Forester William H. Johnson said yesterday after visiting the stricken area in Garrett county that he would "estimate roughly" about 4,000 acres of timberland destroyed by the tornado.

He said the tornado cut a path from one-half to three-quarters of a mile wide through Garrett county and came within one-half mile of Oakland before turning southward and heading for West Virginia.

Approximately 600 acres of timberland were affected by the storm in Swallow Falls state forest alone, Johnson said, with only about 1,000,000 feet of wood being salvageable. He estimated that 3,000,000 feet would not be salvageable for mine pits and other uses because the trees were twisted to pieces. This loss, he said, would approximate $21,000.

Saw Tornado Coming

The home of John O'Haven, superintendent of Swallow Falls forest, was damaged beyond repair, Johnson reported, while a barn was blown down, a chicken coop and many chickens lost and eighteen apple trees uprooted.

O'Haven told Johnson, the latter said, that he saw the funnel-shaped tornado come over the top of a mountain about half a mile away and that it struck his home at almost the instant he had run 100 feet and taken his wife and their niece to the cellar. They were unhurt.

At Thomas, the Davis Coal and Coke Company yesterday was repairing all houses that were only partly damaged and razing those that were beyond repair. Enough vacant houses were found to take care of families made homeless by the storm.

A lost and found office was set up in state police headquarters at Thomas where an effort was being made to return recovered property to the rightful owner.

Relief Committee Formed

Parsons citizens headed by the Rev. Carl M. Talley, pastor of First Baptist church, organized a relief committee and urged residents of the community to donate household articles and wearing apparel for distribution to families of Thomas and Montrose. Contributions are to be turned in at the town's banks. Hubert Lake was made chairman of the allocation committee for distribution of the goods.

Although Red Cross facilities still were maintained yesterday at Montrose, the Women's Society for Christian Service of St. John's Methodist church and the First Methodist churches, of Parsons, established canteens for feeding the community's residents.

Sale of "E" Bonds Stressed by Walsh

Attorney General Says Purchases Are Only 25 Per Cent of Quota

Success of the Fifth War Loan drive, which will be concluded July 8, depends upon everyone buying bonds to the limit of their respective abilities, Attorney General William C. Walsh said last evening in the sixth of a series of radio talks sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Walsh said two-thirds of our bond quota which corporations, public institutions and similar large investors are supposed to buy has almost been filled, and the rest of it is in sight, while less than twenty-five per cent of "E" bonds which individuals are supposed to purchase have been bought or subscribed for.

"I do not think the failure to purchase 'E' bonds is due to any lack of desire on the part of the citizens of this county to contribute to the war effort, but I do think our failure is due to inattention and forgetfulness," the speaker declared.

"These bonds are good things to own. They are the best investment in the world. They represent savings, and the more of them you buy the more money you will have in the future for the purchase of automobiles, furniture, a house or many of the other things you may want to acquire after the war. They will give you a sense of security, and the day will come when you will thank Almighty God for every bond you purchased. Every bond you purchase will aid in shortening the length of the war, and thus will aid in bringing back to America at the earliest possible time all those in the armed forces."

Thomas F. Conlon, past commander and present service officer of the local Legion post, will speak over the air this evening.

Four-Day Drive For Wastepaper Opens Today

Paper Salvage Is Vital to Nation's War Effort, Smith Says

A four-day collection of wastepaper in Cumberland will start today, according to W. Donald Smith, chairman of the county salvage committee. The house to house collection will be divided into four parts, with each section of the city to be canvassed on separate days. The schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, all of the West Side, the Dingle, and Bowling Green. All streets west of Wills creek and the Potomac river.

Wednesday, all streets and avenues north of Baltimore street and Baltimore avenue, east of Wills creek, including the Frederick street and Bedford street sections.

Thursday, all streets south of Baltimore street and Baltimore avenue down to and including Oldtown road, Johnson Heights section and Mapleside north of Oldtown road. LaVale is also included on this date.

Friday, all sections south of Oldtown road, including Mapleside south of Oldtown road.

Collections will start at 9 a. m. each day, Smith said, adding that newspapers and magazines should be tied in bundles and placed at the curb.

Smith asked all merchants who have wastepaper to contribute to the drive to take it down to the box cars in the yard back of the B. and O. rolling mill. The box cars will be there Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Wastepaper is still the nation's chief salvage problem, Smith pointed out, and it is hoped to collect from seventy-five to 100 tons a month in Cumberland and its suburbs during the collections three months.

The salvage committee has planned daily collections from local stores and commercial establishments.

Reduced rates on cable service to prisoners of war and internees held by the Japanese in the Far East have been arranged by the American Red Cross, it was announced yesterday at local headquarters.

A ten-word message will now cost $6 plus a ten per cent tax, or $6.60. Cablegrams to the Far East formerly cost $16. Only one non-emergency message may be sent to any one individual during the year. Additional cablegrams may be sent from next of kin in the event of serious emergency, and the organization will pay for the cable if the sender is unable to do so.

Cablegrams may be sent to officially reported prisoners of war by their immediate families, to United States civilians and to nationals of other countries who are in Japan or in Japanese-held territory, exclusive of Java.

The cost of a cablegram to Germany is $3.50. Cablegrams to Germany follow the same regulations as those to Japan, the Red Cross announced. Unless prisoner status has been announced, no cablegram can be sent, as those missing in action may not necessarily be prisoners of war.

Local Men Describe D-Day Aboard Battleship

Two Cumberland servicemen, a sailor and a marine, described their D-day experiences aboard the U. S. S. Texas, a battleship which played an important role in attacking enemy installations on the Normandy coast during the invasion, in letters received yesterday at their homes.

The men are Charles Berryman, member of a marine corps gun crew, and Clifford W. Day, machine gunner, both of whom are in the service. Berryman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Berryman, 617 South street, and Day is the son of Mrs. C. M. Day, Route 3. Their identical letters said, in part:

"We have been under attack by enemy planes and glider bombs at night, and have seen many planes go down in flames. There have also been shell splashes in the water fairly close to us. The army has praised our shooting, and we are very proud of the knowledge that we have done a good job. We have not been hit and have suffered no casualties."

The battleship is standing off Cherbourg pounding enemy installations, according to an Associated Press dispatch yesterday.

Street Workers Denied Wage Raise

Workers in the street and water departments were denied a wage increase of four cents an hour and a fixed rate of seventy cents when the city council yesterday defeated an order for the increase introduced by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Commissioner Hunter B. Helfrich reported that the $3,200 needed for such a wage increase is not available, and said the workers, whom he interviewed last Tuesday, refused his substitute proposal of cutting the work week from forty-five to forty hours.

A similar order for a wage increase was defeated ten days ago by the council. Mayor Post warned that the commissioners would be responsible if any work stoppage resulted from the defeat of the two orders.

The council voted to allow employees to stop work at 4:30 p. m. instead of 5 p. m. during July and August. All offices will be kept open with one person on duty in each.

Mayor Post was given power to act on a communication from the National Rivers and Harbors Congress inviting the city to send representatives to a meeting in New Orleans July 27 and 28.

James Orr, police and fire commissioner, was authorized to sell a Hudson police cruiser car and the Plymouth car used by the fire chief, and to advertise for bids to replace the two machines.

The salary of Orville B. Garlitz, caretaker at the city dump, was increased from $77 to $100.

Potomac Closed To Bass Fishing Until Saturday

Law also Applies to West Virginians Holding Special Licenses

West Virginians who have purchased special $1.75 licenses to fish in the Potomac river will not be permitted to take bass from the stream until the season opens in Maryland on Saturday, July 1 in spite of the fact that the West Virginia season opened Saturday, June 24, Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, announced yesterday.

Minke said that he has received numerous calls from West Virginians in regard to the legality of fishing the Potomac at the present time for bass, perch and blue gill and he advised them that it's against the law to take anything other than catfish, carp and eels from the stream until July 1. Carp, catfish and eels may be caught from February 15 to November 30 and bass, perch and blue gill from July 1 to November 30 in Maryland. Closed since last year when it was converted into a bass fishing water, Deep Creek Lake will be open from July 1 to November 30, Minke said. Thirty thousand bass were planted in the lake last year for the five months' season.

The trout season which opened April 15 will overlap the bass season fifteen days in that it does not close until July 15. During this period both bass and trout may be taken from some streams.

Minke said that the storm last week made the Potomac river muddy as far down as Sandy Hook in Washington county but expects this condition to clear up by Thursday provided there is no rain.

Court Overrules Motion To Quash Return of Service

Eagles Lodge Contended Plaintiff Had No Right To Sue

A motion to quash return of service of subpoenas on Aerie 2341, Fraternal Order of Eagles, of Elkins, W. Va., defendant in two damage suits totalling $60,000, was overruled yesterday in circuit court in a memorandum signed by Chief Judge Walter C. Capper and Associate Judge William A. Ruster.

One of the damage suits, for $30,000, was filed by the State of Maryland for the use of Mrs. Nola May Dawson and her children against the lodge and Edwin R. Swick of Elkins, while the other suit, for $30,000, was filed by Mrs. Dawson as administratrix of the estate of her husband, Clifford L. Dawson, against the lodge and Swick.

According to the declarations filed in the suits, Swick was acting as an agent of the lodge when his car struck and fatally injured Dawson last December.

The lodge filed the motion to quash return of service, and contended the plaintiffs had no right to proceed against it because it is an unincorporated association located outside the state.

The judges, in their memorandum declared they believe the language of the law "when read as a whole" broad enough to include a non-resident, unincorporated association, and that any other construction would be a narrow interpretation of it, defeating in a large measure the beneficial purposes of this legislation.

William C. Walsh and Morgan C. Harris represented the plaintiffs while D. Lindsey Sloan and William A. Gunter were attorneys for the lodge.

Most Allegany County Stores Abiding by Price Regulations

Allegany county food stores have one of the best records in the state for abiding by price regulations of the OPA, according to Harry A. Porch, chairman of the local Retail Board's price panel.

A recent check of 258 of the 328 stores in the county disclosed only minor violations in fifty-six stores surveyed, consisting of improper posting of price ceilings and selling certain items one or two cents higher than the price ceilings. The violations were adjusted by the owners as soon as the price panel checkers pointed them out.

Of the stores checked 121 were listed as conforming to OPA regulations of price ceilings and other requirements, Porch said.

Repeated violations by any of the food stores will result in the owners being called before the price panel for hearings and possible imposition of penalties, he added.
